

TWO VISITORS ARE APPOINTED BY ASSISTANCE

Arthur J. Roth, 220 South Stratton street, and Mrs. Regina Murlatt, Eberhart Apartments, were elected as visitors by the Adams County Public Assistance Board Monday evening at its regular meeting held in the Assistance office on North Washington street.

Mrs. Verna Myers, executive director, said the selection of the two marks the addition of one visitor to the staff and the filling of the vacancy caused by the promotion of Virginia Wright from visitor to junior supervisor.

There are now five visitors on the staff. They will begin their duties August 1. In addition, Mrs. Myers announced, several other vacancies on the staff will be filled by appointments by the board probably at the August meeting.

Commander of VFW

Roth, commander of the local Veterans of Foreign Wars post, is a graduate this year of Mount Saint Mary's college, Emmitsburg, and served in the U. S. Army in the United States and in the European Theater of Operations from 1941 to 1945 as a sergeant. He is a son of Mrs. Arthur E. Roth, South Stratton street.

Mrs. Murlatt, wife of C. C. Murlatt, a student at Dickinson Law school, is a native of New Rochelle, N. Y., and served 2½ years with the Waves at Charleston, S. C., during the war in the communications and personnel division. She graduated from Gettysburg college in June. Her husband graduated from the college here a year ago.

Case Load Down

The case load of public assistance is down five from last month and up 43 from July 1 a year ago. The total number of cases at the present time is 791, the number as of June 1 was 796 and of July 1, 1948, 748. Much of the increase over 1948 is in the cases of aid to dependent children, with the number now being 152 and the number then 121. Old age assistance cases are down from last year from 462 to 452. The number of cases as of the first of July this year was given as 452 old age, 98 blind pension, 152 aid to children and 89 general cases.

The number of general assistance cases has also increased during the past year, from 70 to 89.

Claims Russia Explodes A-Bomb

Paris, July 26 (AP)—A Paris weekly newspaper claims in its current edition that Russia has exploded an atom bomb.

The story appeared in Samedi Soir, a weekly noted for sensationalism.

According to the newspaper, United States recording devices showed an atomic explosion in Siberia July 10.

This, said Samedi Soir, is the reason President Truman called a top-secret conference of military, scientific and congressional leaders.

"The United States," said the weekly, "which had managed until now to keep monopoly of the atom bomb and of the material necessary for its production is in a frightful scare since the moment it knew the U.S.S.R. had pierced the secret of the bomb."

Samedi Soir said the United States established a listening post in the Arctic after being alerted by British intelligence who had received reports from Russian refugees that the Soviets were on the point of unlocking the secret of the atom bomb.

STATE POLICE TO HOLD RODEO IN SEPTEMBER

Captain John D. Kime, commanding officer of Troop "A" Squadron 2, Pennsylvania State Police, whose district covers the counties of Adams, Dauphin, Cumberland, Franklin, Perry and York, announces that the annual State Police Rodeo will be held in the Hershey Stadium, Saturday, September 10.

To most persons the term "rodeo" suggests cowboys in their picturesque garb. This, however, is not the type of show staged by Pennsylvania's famous police. All of the participants will be members of the Pennsylvania State Police force who will put on a program of motorcycle, trick and stunt riding, aerial balloon shooting, highly trained police dogs, "high-school" educated horses, human hurdles and high jumping horses, the famous and noted State Police lance drill and the Zouave Rifle Drill with the addition of many other featured acts.

Colorful Drills

The fluttering pennants and the glinting from the shining lances add color to one of the most outstanding numbers on the program. When the drill is presented at night the lances are tipped with colored lights.

The proceeds derived from bringing this gala event to this area, over and above expenses, will go into the Pennsylvania State Police Civic association, Inc., which is maintained for the payment of superannuation annuities to members, for funeral expenses for deceased members, and to purchase prostheses for members requiring them.

Captain Kime states that everything done in connection with the Rodeo will be done by members of the Pennsylvania State Police only, and he earnestly requests the support and cooperation of the many friends of the Pennsylvania State Police throughout the entire troop area.

Concede Passage Of Poll Tax Bill

Washington, July 26 (AP)—Southern Democrats hoisted the flag of surrender today in the face of overwhelming House sentiment for anti-poll tax legislation.

They conceded that today's session would see passage of the legislation but said it will never pass the Senate which on four previous occasions has bottled it up.

The passage vote was set for mid-afternoon and northern Democrats and Republicans predicted that there wouldn't be more than 100 votes against the bill.

The legislation, backed by the 1948 conventions of both major political parties, would make it unlawful to require payment of a poll tax as a prerequisite for voting in primary or general elections for President, vice president or members of Congress.

Ecuadorian Troops Break Up Revolt

Quito, Ecuador, July 26 (AP)—The government of President Galo Plaza Lasso said it smashed a revolt attempt today.

Army troops beat down an attempt to attack the presidential palace. A government announcement said the revolutionists were led by Col. Carlos Manchano, former dictator.

Guayaquil, a major port of Ecuador, was quiet.

One group of rebels in Quito, the nation's capital, tried to attack the Presidential palace while Manchano made an effort to take control of a group of army tanks. The government said "both maneuvers" failed in the face of quick action by the army and civilian authorities.

MARSHALL PLAN ON PROGRAM OF ROTARY MEETING

A radio script entitled "Restoring the European Community," written by Rotary International staff members, was presented Monday evening at the regular meeting of the local Rotary club, held at the YWCA.

Dr. Kenneth Smoke, vice president of the club, acted as "announcer." Others participating included Dr. Roy W. Gifford, Attorney Edward B. Bulleit and G. Henry Roth.

The script outlined the manner in which the Marshall Plan is set up to bring about a European community of nations operating together to provide a working economy for those nations as a first step toward eventually providing a working economy for the world. It also described the manner in which the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe assists the organization for European Economic Cooperation, the Marshall plan organization, in providing for free trade among the European nations.

Announce Meeting Places

Rotary President William G. Weaver announced that the club will meet at five different places during the next five weeks before resuming its usual location, the YWCA, for the remaining meetings of the year. The first "outside" meeting will be held next Monday at Mt. Joy Lutheran parish house where a ladies' night program will be held.

A meeting of the club assembly, made up of the club officers and chairmen of the various committees, will be held Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock at the Adams House, President Weaver said.

Robert Snyder, a member of the Littlestown Rotary club, led group singing at Monday's session.

MAN IS STRUCK BY VEHICLE HE HAD JUST LEFT

Charles Sipe, 67, Hanover R. 3, suffered a deep laceration of the head, cuts about the nose and bruising of the arms and body when a truck hit a car two miles south of Cross Keys on the Hanover road at 5:20 o'clock this morning.

Sipe had just stepped out of the car of George Hull, 55, Hanover R. 3, in which he had been a passenger, when the auto was struck by a truck-trailer and the car struck Sipe, hurling him headfirst into some rocks in a four-foot ditch. Sipe was removed to the Hanover hospital where he is a patient.

State police of the local sub-station, who investigated, said that Hull had driven to the side of the road, headed north, when struck by the truck and trailer which was operated by Samuel V. Zehner, 24, Nescopeck R. 1, and owned by Zehner Brothers, same address.

The truck-trailer hit the rear and left side of the Hull car, pushing it about ten feet ahead, careened around the Hull vehicle, and finally wound up on its side in the same ditch into which Sipe had been thrown. Karl Schultz, 16, Nescopeck, a passenger in the truck cab, suffered bruises, but was not treated for the injuries.

Damage to the car was estimated at $150 and to the truck at $1,500. The investigation is being continued.

More than half the small huts in the lower residential district of this city of 6,000,000, were destroyed last night. (The typhoon left two dead on Okinawa, 16 Americans injured and

NEW LIBRARY CONTRIBUTORS ARE FOUNDERS

In the last week of its Gettysburg campaign for a building fund to finance the purchase and renovation of the former county jail building as the new home for the Adams County Free library, the finance committee of the library association is attempting to complete its local appeal and bring in donations of its supporters in Gettysburg within the month allotted by the Community Chest.

A drive will be made, possibly in the fall, through the remainder of the county but the Gettysburg appeal has been concentrated in July.

$14,000 Is Needed

The library seeks funds with which to meet the $9,000 purchase price of the former county jail property and to cover the approximately $5,000 needed for immediate repairs and conversion of the building for library purposes.

Work at the old jail property has begun and is to be completed by mid-September so that rented quarters at 135 Carlisle street can be vacated by September 30.

O. H. Benson, chairman of the finance committee, said contributors to the building fund are being designated as "founders of the new library" as the organization prepares to move into its permanent quarters. Since it began operations three and a half years ago, the library's headquarters have been in a rented first floor of a former dwelling house on Carlisle street.

Gettysburg Lions Monday evening voted the Gettysburg Fire company $10 and deferred until next Monday final action on the club's donation to the current building fund campaign of the Adams County Free library. The club's finance committee recommended that a donation be made but asked the club to set the amount. It was decided that the matter should be taken up at a joint meeting of the finance committee and the board of directors so that the club can act next week.

Vice President Radford H. Lippy presided at the meeting with about 90 members and guests present. A group of Littlestown Lions who later engaged the local club's softball team were introduced as was Bernard Murray of Gettysburg.

STREET LIGHTS BEING REPLACED

The old lights were 100 watts. All of the new ones, with the exception of four, will be 250 watt lights. Four will be 400 watts.

Heat Fails To Reach Records Of Other Years

The weatherman had to fall back on that old gag again today, "it isn't the heat, it's the humidity." As Gettysburgians sweated, the official government thermometer at The Gettysburg Times building showed a "cool" 92 degrees at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon.

This was four degrees "cooler" than the maximum recorded on Monday, when the temperatures rose to 96 degrees but it was far from some of the days of real heat recorded in the past in Gettysburg.

Temperatures in the high nineties are so common among the weather records of yesteryears as to hardly be worth noting, but on several occasions the mercury has registered above 100.

Awfully Hot Month

Records show that it was 106 degrees on August 7, 1918, and again on July 21, 1926. On July 10, 1926, the thermometer registered 104 degrees. It was 104 on July 22, 1926.

It has been hotter this month than any time in July last year, according to the records. On July 7 the mercury went up to 99. The highest last year was a 94 on July 5.

On May 7 of this year the thermometer registered 93, and on June 9, 94, highest for these two months this year. Seven times since official weather records have been kept in Gettysburg the mercury had gone to 100 or more during August, so local residents cannot be sure that next month won't break some records.

From the high of 96 on Monday, the temperature dropped to 72 during the early morning hours, but the humidity remained. The wind the past two days has been from the south-southwest.

Local Firemen To Take Rescue Course

Twenty-five members of the Gettysburg Fire department met at the engine house at 7:30 o'clock Monday night and decided to take advantage of an offer of the Red Cross for a refresher course in rescue work and resuscitation.

The first session will be held at the engine house at 7 o'clock Wednesday night, and will be followed by other classes once a week for at least three weeks.

The instructor will be Edward Muhlbach, a senior at Gettysburg college, who has attended the Red Cross National Aquatic school, and has been teaching water safety for the Red Cross here this summer.

Maryland Driver Pays Fine Of $10

Patrick A. Vito, Baltimore, arrested by state police of the Gettysburg substation on a charge of failing to yield the right of way, was fined $10 and costs by Justice of the Peace Walter A. Wolf, York Springs.

Police said Vito stopped for the stop sign at the York Springs intersection of the Gettysburg-Harrisburg road and the York Springs-Cross Keys road, then drove into the intersection in the path of a south-bound automobile on the Harrisburg road. A collision was narrowly averted by the quick action of the other driver, police said.

REPORT GARDEN THEFTS

Truck gardens in the borough are again being pilfered as tomatoes and other vegetables ripen, according to borough police, who said they had been receiving reports of such depredations. A close watch is being maintained and culprits will be prosecuted when caught, police said.

Clerks of the county election board today were preparing a list of the names of some 300 candidates for various offices for inclusion on the Republican and Democratic ballots at the forthcoming September primary.

By the closing hour, 4 o'clock Monday afternoon, the election board found no surprises and resigned itself to an abundance of write-in votes when the electorate attempts to fill in all the nearly 400 vacant spaces in the primary ballot.

On a county level the only battles seem to be among the candidates for sheriff and clerk of courts.

Two Democrats, Walter J. Craumer, Fairfield and Charles A. Hemler, Gettysburg R. 3, are seeking the sheriff nomination. Four Republicans are out for their party's nomination for sheriff. They are present Sheriff Dorsey J. Schultz; Bernard E. Murray, West Middle street; John C. Shealer, 27 East High street, present deputy sheriff, and Melvin H. Spence, York street.

Clerk of Courts

Mrs. Emma E. Sheffer, 137 West Middle street, the incumbent and Joseph W. Cooley, Biglerville R. 1, turnkey at the jail, are seeking the Republican nomination for clerk of courts. Lloyd T. Goodling, Hanover, is the only Democrat candidate for the post.

There will be no competition, apparently, for county treasurer at the primary. Carl S. Menchey, 138 Steinwehr avenue, is seeking the Republican nomination and George D. March, 501 York street, has filed for the Democratic nomination. Listed as candidates for jury commissioner are Mervin I. Rice, Bendersville, on the Republican ticket and L. Robert Crouse, West King street extended, Littlestown on the Democratic ticket.

Gettysburg has more than a full complement of candidates for its three council posts.

Those who have filed as candidates include: First ward, Dawson R. Miller, 143 E. Water street, Democrat; Mervin E. Crouse, 324 York street, Republican; and M. P. Hartzell, Sr., 46 East Lincoln avenue, Republican. George D. March, York street, had also filed for First ward councilman but has withdrawn because of his candidacy for treasurer.

Weaver for Burgess

In the second ward Ellen Tipton Buehler, 17 North Washington street, and John D. Teeter, 26 Springs avenue, are Republican candidates for councilman. Third ward council candidates are Kenneth W. Johns, 47 Steinwehr avenue, Republican; Curran L. Butt, 340 Steinwehr avenue, Democrat; L. D. Shealer, 47 Howard street, Republican, and William E. Knox, 26 Breckenridge street, Democrat.

MOVE TO CUT U.S. MILITARY AID TO EUROPE

Washington, July 26 (AP)—Republican backers of military aid for Western Europe moved today to cut by more than half President Truman's $1,450,000,000 foreign arms program.

Greeted with a storm of criticism, the President's proposal seemed to have headed the bipartisan foreign policy toward one of its severest tests in Congress.

Senators Vandenberg (R-Mich.) and Dulles (R-N. Y.), who have taken active parts in trying to keep that policy alive, were obviously irked that the State Department had ignored their advice to submit only a token arms program to a Congress already fretting about foreign spending.

They felt themselves open to attack from GOP colleagues on the ground that the administration seemed to be making cooperation a one-way street.

Alternative Plan

Nevertheless, the two were reported working with Rep. Vorys (R-Ohio) on an alternative plan. Under it Congress might be asked to approve a $770,000,000 outlay to forward $450,000,000 in surplus military equipment to North Atlantic pact signers and make about $200,000,000 more available to buy new equipment for them at home and abroad.

This would be in addition to about $325,000,000 to continue arms aid for Greece and Turkey, the amount the President asked.

Thus the total cash outlay under the alternative plan would be less than half of the total sought by Mr. Truman. He also asked the $770,000,000 for repairing, packaging and shipping surplus supplies along with about $1,000,000,000 for new equipment for eight Atlantic pact signers.

This alternate proposal, just taking shape, represented the first move toward compromising a program that stirred a storm of criticism from both Democrats and Republicans. The criticism was heavier in volume than the approval Mr. Truman's plan got from administration supporters when he formally submitted it yesterday.

SAYS OFFICERS AIDED PROGRAMS

San Francisco, July 26 (AP)—"Tokyo Rose" told an FBI man in 1946 that she did not feel her wartime broadcasts from radio Tokyo were against the interests of the United States.

The jury hearing the treason trial of Iva Toguri D'Aquino yesterday heard a 12 page report of a statement she gave FBI Agent Frederick Tillman at Tokyo's Sugamo prison, April 30, 1946.

In it, the 33-year-old native of Los Angeles acknowledged that she knew her program was aimed at lowering morale of Allied troops. However, she said it showed Japanese sportsmanship by sending messages from Allied war prisoners.

Two captured officers, an Australian and an American, took her into their confidence, she said, and told her they were trying to make the program one of entertainment rather than propaganda. However, she continued, "they never directly or positively told me they were trying to defeat the Japanese purpose of the program."

The two officers were Major Charles Cousins of Australia and Major Wallace Ince of the United States. The defense contends Miss Toguri and these two conspired to sabotage the Japanese propaganda program.

Navy Wife Found Guilty Of Murder

Guam, July 26 (AP)—Mrs. Eliza Hanzsek today was found guilty of second degree murder of her husband, Pennsylvania born U. S. Navy Chief Joseph Hanzsek, and sentenced to five years in prison.

Judge Jose Manibuan, who found the Guam born Navy wife guilty, said evidence pointed to numerous quarrels between the two. He sentenced Mrs. Hanzsek to the Agana Civil Jail. The case will now go to the Guam Court of Appeals for review.

Hanzsek was killed on February 18. The judge stressed in his decision that neither the prosecution or the defense mentioned that Mrs. Hanzsek had voluntarily telephoned police after the killing and made no effort to flee.

Discounts Effects Of Bomb Radiation

Chicago, July 26 (AP)—An Atomic Energy Commission doctor said today that atom bomb radiation is "perhaps the most over-evaluated" hazard of war.

This opinion was expressed by Col. James P. Cooney, a member of the AEC's medical advisory staff. Writing in the July issue of radiology, a journal for specialists in x-ray and radium, he said: "The residual radiation from an air burst bomb is insignificant. The significant radiation occurs in a matter of micro-seconds and does not extend beyond a 2,000-yard radius.

"Immediately after a detonation such as occurred at Hiroshima or Nagasaki, it is perfectly safe to enter into a bombed area and rescue the thousands whose injuries will be such that they will not be able to walk."

DOCTOR KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

Whitehall, N. Y., July 26 (AP)—A young doctor with 381 hours flying time to his credit, was killed yesterday when his light plane crashed in a field six miles northeast of here.

The victim was Dr. Daniel C. Donald, Jr., 25, resident neurologist at Jefferson hospital, Philadelphia.

Coroner William B. Ingles of Washington county said Donald was completely crushed in the wreckage. The coroner issued a certificate of accidental death.

Ingles said the crash occurred about an hour after Donald left Glens Falls airport after refueling. The flyer told airport personnel he was en route to Burlington, Vt., and then to Montreal.

An instructor at Fair Haven (Vt.) airport, Harold Travers, said the craft, a single wing amphibian, was flying in the clouds when it suddenly "spun down."

Coroner Ingles said Donald had been flying since 1946.

ANTI-CATHOLIC CHARGE STUDIED

Washington, July 26 (AP)—Democratic political leaders here are studying the possible effect on next November's New York senatorial campaign of Francis Cardinal Spellman's charges that Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt is anti-Catholic.

Mrs. Roosevelt has denied any such bias. But even before she spoke out for herself in her syndicated column, former Gov. Herbert Lehman, among others, had come to her defense.

Lehman is expected to be the Democratic nominee in November's special election to complete the term of Senator Robert A. Wagner, Democrat, who resigned. John Foster Dulles, Republican, was named by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey to serve until the election.

Lehman said last week he was "deeply shocked" by Cardinal Spellman's attack on Mrs. Roosevelt, which stemmed from her opposition to making federal funds available for non-public schools.

Lehman added that the question raised by the Cardinal's criticism of Mrs. Roosevelt is "whether Americans are entitled freely to express their views on public questions without being vilified or accused of religious bias."

This strong criticism of a high official of the Roman Catholic church is regarded in some quarters as likely to have some effect on Lehman's prospective candidacy in a state where members of that faith are numerous.

Bull Rescued From Railroad Culvert

Swoope, Va., July 26 (AP)—Elmer the bull lost 60 pounds in 21 days—no bull.

Elmer got trapped in a railroad culvert pipe, where he'd gone to escape the heat. Rocks washed up behind him, blocking the way out, and there Elmer stood for three weeks, up to his shanks in water. Railroad workers found him in the 36-inch pipe, a mere shadow of himself at an undernourished 300 pounds. Around his famished waist they wound a rope, hauled away, and out came Elmer.

Elmer's astonished owner readily identified him as the year-and-a-half old Angus which had disappeared from his farm July 10. Then he put Elmer on a build-up diet of milk, wheat bran, cornmeal, and other such delicacies.

Elmer's doing fine, thank you. But his owner won't identify himself for publication.

"It's Elmer's story," he says.

Berlin Blockade Is Denied By Reds

Berlin, July 26 (AP)—The Russians deny there ever was a "little blockade" of Berlin.

Lieut. Gen. M. I. Dratvin, Soviet deputy military governor in Germany made the denial yesterday in a letter to British authorities who protested 13 days ago that the Russians suddenly had closed all entry points for Berlin-bound highway traffic except Helmsdorf.

Yesterday at least three of these points were reported open again.

Dratvin declared that "statements about recent restrictions allegedly imposed by Soviet authorities on freight traffic from the western zones to Berlin lack every foundation."

Denver, July 26 (AP)—A man who tried to rescue a cat was rescued himself last night by firemen.

R. E. Larue, 35, got up on the roof all right and reached the cat. But coming down posed a different problem.

Neighbors summoned firemen who raised a 25-foot ladder to Larue—and the cat.

HUGE FOREIGN AID PROGRAM STIRS SENATE

Washington, July 26 (AP)—A short-tempered, irritable Senate waded deeper today into a bitter dispute over the $5,723,000,000 foreign aid program.

The strain of the long session was beginning to show in the debate which centered on money for the second year of the European Recovery program.

Senators snapped at each other angrily late yesterday over an issue that few had thought would cause a ripple. The major issues were yet to come.

Attacks England
The Senate voted $344,000 to keep a Congressional "watchdog" committee checking on recovery spending. But not before Majority Leader Lucas of Illinois, stirred up a wordy scrap by trying—and failing—to have the funds cut to $200,000.

On top of this Senator Ellender (D-La.) had his colleagues buzzing over his report that the Marshall Plan is threatened with failure because of a reported feeling that American policy in Europe is dominated by Great Britain.

Ellender is just back from a trip to Italy, where he attended a "World Health Congress."

He told friends his trip convinced him Europe can't recover unless: (1) Germany is pulled back to recovery; (2) Europe produces goods at prices the people can afford to pay; (3) And currencies are made convertible from one European country to another.

"The rest of Europe is willing to work out stabilized, convertible currencies," Ellender told a reporter, "but Britain won't go along."

Senate leaders had stubborn opposition in their fight to eliminate amendments tagged onto the foreign aid bill by the Senate appropriations committee.

Senator Lucas said he was confident they would be knocked out. But Chairman McKellar (D-Tenn.) of the appropriations committee was just as positive the amendments will remain.

Wants Unions Under Anti-Trust Curbs

Washington, July 26 (AP)—Former trust-buster Thurman Arnold declared today it is a "very dangerous thing" to permit labor unions to monopolize the labor supply without any "curbs whatsoever."

He urged that Congress take steps to bring unions under the anti-trust statutes and let the courts decide the issues of each case.

Arnold, head of the Justice department's anti-trust division during the "New Deal" days and now in private practice in Washington, outlined his view to the Senate Banking committee.

The committee, at the request of Senator Robinson (D-Va.) is looking primarily at the operations of the coal industry and the activities of John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers. The miner chieftain last June 30 declared a three-day work week for the coal fields which Robertson has called a "bold and overt act" to fix prices and restrict production.

Girl Swimmer Is Hit By Motorboat

Trenton, N. J., July 26 (AP)—A 13-year-old girl was injured seriously last night when an outboard motorboat struck her while she was swimming in the Delaware river.

The girl, Patricia Conklin, suffered gashes of the left leg. She was taken to St. Francis hospital, where a successful operation was performed to save the leg.

Officials of the hospital today listed her condition as fair and said amputation would not be necessary. Operator of the motorboat was John Galambos, 15, of Morrisville, Pa. He told police he was towing another youth on water skis when the girl swam out to the center of the channel and into the boat's path.

No charges have been preferred against him.

PENNANT RACES GET HOT; ODDS FAVOR CARDS

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Sports Writer
Throw the first three months out of the window, boys—the National league pennant race is just beginning.

It took 14 weeks, but now that the wheat has been separated from the chaff, the same old bitter rivals—the Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals—are battling for the coveted prize. That's been the story in six of the last eight years.

At the moment, the edge lies with the Cards. Back home from a successful 12-game eastern jaunt, the Redbirds are in first place today, a half game in front of the slumping Dodgers. As far as the flag is concerned, the other six clubs can start rebuilding for next year.

The rampant Redbirds, who took over first place from Brooklyn by knocking off the Dodgers three straight in the Brooks' own back yard, begin a 19-game home stand today.

In the meantime, the Dodgers will play 17 games on the road, beginning with a trio in Chicago.

Indians Take Yanks

The American league race is showing signs of becoming a humdrum, too. It appeared practically over last week when the pace-setting New York Yankees knocked off their most persistent challengers—the Cleveland Indians—two out of three to increase their margin to five and a half games.

Things have changed since then, though. The tribe went on to take its next five games, including the big one last night when they whipped the Yankees, 4-2, before 71,354 at the Yankee stadium. That cut the Bronx Bombers' lead to only three games, with the two teams clashing again Wednesday and Thursday.

The Indians delivered a one-two punch last night. Not only did they defeat the Yankees, but they turned the tables on Vic Raschi, who had whipped them four straight times this year. The Yankee ace went the route for the 15th time, but was tagged for 11 hits and went down to his fourth defeat. He has won 15.

Right-hander Early Wynn registered his eighth victory against two setbacks, but needed help from Satchel Paige in the eighth.

Game Is Called

Dale Mitchell was instrumental in Cleveland's first two runs. Driving in the first with a long fly, and scoring the second on a fly by Mickey Vernon following his triple.

A pair of lapses by the Yankee battery accounted for Cleveland's last two runs.

In the only National league game, the Dodgers, striving to save something from their disastrous series with the Redbirds, had to settle for a nine-inning tie as the Cards overcame a 3-1 deficit in the sixth. The game was called by agreement at the end of the ninth to permit both clubs to make train connections to the west.

Stan Musial's triple, the first of three hits against his Brooklyn "cousins," scored Lou Klein to give the Cards a run in the first, but the Brooks came back with two in the third and another in the fourth for a 3-1 lead.

With two away in the sixth, Musial doubled, Enos Slaughter walked, and Ron Northey scored them both with a two-base hit. Rocky Nelson's two-bagger brought in Northey to put the Cards ahead, 4-3. The Dodgers tied the score at 4-4 in their half of the sixth on Pinch Hitter Gene Hermanski's home run.

No other games were scheduled in the majors.

Eastern League

(By The Associated Press)

The Scranton Miners, defending Eastern league champions, are making a belated rush for the pennant that has almost been nailed to the Albany Senators' mast.

The Miners were in second place today, having exchanged seats with the Wilkes-Barre Indians. But second place is still 15½ games behind Albany, and here it is the last week in July.

The Scrantonians were boosted into the runner-up spot last night by the tail-end Elmira Pioneers, who made them a gift of four straight. Although outlasted, 15-14, the Miners won last night, 12-9.

Four of Elmira's five errors furnished three Scranton runs. The misuses raised to 18 the Elmira total for the wobbly series.

Art Walls Wins Pa. Amateur Title

Pittsburgh, July 26 (AP)—Art Walls, 25-year-old Scranton golfer who's had 27 holes-in-one, is Pennsylvania's amateur golf champion for the third time in two years.

Walls didn't get an ace Sunday, but he defeated Howard Everitt of Philadelphia, 1-up to win the crown he first captured in 1947. He got to the finals by beating Jack Penrose, Philadelphia, 3 and 2.

Everitt, who had trouble getting his putts in the cup, had to go 19 holes to nip Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, in the semi-finals. Everitt used only 51 putts to 33 for Wall but it was on the greens that the Philadelphia lost the tournament. He missed four putts of five feet or less.

Rallying for two runs in the last half of the final inning, the Yankees defeated the Dodgers 3-2 in the opening Gettysburg Recreational Junior Baseball league Monday evening.

The newly organized league is composed of six teams from each section of the town and is for boys from 10 to 16 years of age. All games will be played at 6:30 o'clock in the evenings on the recreation field.

The schedule is as follows: Tonight, Phillies vs. A's; July 28, Cardinals vs. Pirates; August 2, Dodgers vs. A's; August 3, Yankees vs. Pirates; August 5, Phillies vs. Cardinals; August 8, A's vs. Cardinals; August 9, Yankees vs. Phillies; August 11, Dodgers vs. Pirates; August 15, Yankees vs. A's; August 16, Dodgers vs. Cardinals; August 18, Phillies vs. Pirates; August 22, Yankees vs. Cardinals; August 23, Dodgers vs. Phillies; August 25, Pirates vs. A's.

Arrangements have been made to take team players to Washington on Saturday to witness the Washington-St. Louis Browns game.

The cost will be $1.25 for each boy which includes the cost of bus fare and admission to the game. Those planning to attend are asked to sign at the recreation field before Friday evening. Each must have a signed note from their parents giving permission for the trip. Boys are requested to take packed lunches with extra money if they desire to purchase eats at the ball park. The bus will leave at 8 a. m. and return about 9 o'clock in the evening.

The Elks and Stanton Legion gained victories in the Community Softball league Monday evening.

In the opening game the Elks, playing with but eight men topped the Cola Rangers 5-1 in a fast contest and thereby moved to within points of the Texas Lunch for third place. Ross Sachs permitted the Rangers but four hits.

The Stanton Legion put on one of its best exhibitions to cop the nightcap 15-4 over the second place VFW.

Clarence Dorm, Legion hurler, gave one of his best exhibitions by fanning nine VFW batsmen. The legionnaires, playing a fast and hard game, gave the large crowd plenty of action and through the victory moved into seventh place.

A meeting of the league officials preceded the games and it was decided that beginning Wednesday evening one postponed game will be played each evening on the high school field at 6:30 o'clock.

CLEANING THE CUFF

Dutch McElreath, Tulane assistant coach who has been touring the east, tabs Eddie Price as a 1949 All-American halfback. . . . He may be right, but it'll be a disappointment to a hundred other coaches who also have sure-fire All-American halfbacks. . . . Ex-football giant Willie Walls likely will be suffering when 44 hand-picked prep footballers gather at Corpus Christi, Tex., next month for the east-west all-star game. . . . The kids will train at Corpus Christi U., where Walls is coach, but probably they're tabbed for other colleges.

Adolph Weinacker, Michigan State College junior and national AAU 50,000-meter walking champion, trains over campus walks and near-by country roads.

Aces Play Tonight At Arendtsville

All teams of the Adams County Baseball league are scheduled for action this evening.

The Gettysburg, with a fighting chance to gain a playoff position, will tangle with the second-place Conewago VFW nine at Arendtsville.

Other games listed for tonight are: Hanover at Orrtanna, Emmitsburg at Bendersville, New Oxford at Fairfield, and York Springs at Littlestown. The York Springs-Littlestown game will be played under the lights at 8:30 o'clock.

ROBINSON HOLDS NATIONAL LEAD

New York, July 26 (AP)—St. Louis' devilish duo—Stan Musial and Enos Slaughter—went on a batting tear during the past week but neither as yet threatens Jackie Robinson's grip on the National league batting leadership.

Musial isn't even in the top ten although he boosted his mark from 290 to 304 with a sensational eight for 14 at Brooklyn's Ebbets Field. Slaughter, however, shot up from 13th to a tie for third with another Redbird teammate, Al (Red) Schoendienst.

The hustling Cardinal outfielder collected 15 hits in 30 times at bat during the week and raised his figure to .323. That was still 36 points behind Robinson's league-leading .359. The brilliant Brooklyn second baseman fell off a bit, shedding seven points from his .366 of a week ago.

Robinson's closest pursuer was Willard Marshall, the stocky outfielder of the New York Giants, whose .332 entitled him to second place. Another Giant, Bobby Thompson, moved up a couple of notches into a fifth-place tie with his .322. The other fifth-place share holder was Ralph Kiner of Pittsburgh.

Kiner's outfield mate, Wally Westlake, shared sixth place with Brooklyn's Gil Hodges. Each owned a .312 rating. A pair of Giants, Sid Gordon and Whitely Lockman, rounded out the big ten. Gordon's .309 was one point higher than Lockman's figure.

Interstate League

(By The Associated Press)

The hapless Harrisburg Senators—still staggering from a five-game losing streak that dropped them from first to third in the Interstate league—re-entered the win column last night in the nightcap of a twin bill with the Hagerstown Owls.

The Senators walloped the Owls 13-3 in the afterpiece after losing the opener 7-0. The split left them three and a half games off the pace set by the league-leading Allentown Cardinals, idle last night.

Woody Wheaton, Owls manager, turned in a two-hitter in the first game and then came back to pitch six and two-third innings in relief in the nightcap.

In the only other game scheduled, the York White Roses trounced the Lancaster Red Roses 11-4. The win

Local Miscellany: The property of St. Francis Xavier's Catholic church is being improved by the laying of pavement in front of the church and along the school building.

The agency in this place, for the Adams Express Company, has been transferred from Harry F. Buehler to the new lumber and coal firm of Blocher and Koser. The new wagon, received on Saturday, is one of the finest, it is said, south of New York city.

St. James Sunday School will hold its annual picnic on Tuesday at Toot's woods, along Marsh creek. Sixty pupils from the Soldiers' Orphans' Home, at Scotland, in charge of Prof. M. L. Thornhurst, will visit the battlefield on Friday. Guide Minnigh will show the party over the field.

The Prohibition County Convention will be held at the Pitzer House, in this place, on Saturday, Aug. 5, at 1:30 p. m., when a full county ticket will be named.

The Levant Wheelmen, of Washington, D. C., will spend several days next week on the battlefield, stopping at Hotel Gettysburg.

Weaver—Pfeffer.—June 27, in this place, by Rev. A. R. Steck, Harry E. Weaver to Miss Laura S. Pfeffer, both of this place.

Conewago Pic-Nic: The great Conewago picnic on Tuesday was attended by about 2,000 people. The net receipts will amount to nearly $800.

Among the clergymen in attendance was Rev. Father Crotty, of Gettysburg.

Prisoners Made Escape from Jail: Two prisoners made their escape from the Adams County Jail last Sunday afternoon. The Misses Davis, of this place, are in the habit of holding Sunday School at the jail on Sunday afternoon. After the service was over the turnkey opened the door of the cell to let the ladies out and took with him the two chairs they had used. As he did so the two prisoners made a bolt through the door and escaped.

Sheriff Miller was in New Oxford at the time but came home immediately and instituted a search for the prisoners. The police of neighboring towns were telegraphed requests to be on the lookout.

About one o'clock Monday night one of the prisoners rang the bell at the jail and asked to be admitted. Sheriff Miller dressed himself and opened the door to the prodigious prisoner. Information was forthcoming that the other prisoner was at Sabillasville, Md., and Sheriff Miller brought the other prisoner back from there Tuesday morning.

Base Ball: The York Gazette says of the game at York on Saturday: Edward Plank, a youth just fresh from an Adams county farm and who just recently aspired to become a base ball pitcher, came to York yesterday to twirl a sphere for the Gettysburg club in a game with Manager Weibel's Athletics on the local ball field. The newspapers in this vicinity, as well as some of those in the large cities, have of late been telling stories of young Plank's remarkable pitching abilities and the easy manner in which he disposed of the hard hitting Athletics in the game yesterday is positive proof of his skill. The enthusiasts who saw him work are convinced that he is a wonder—about the warmest manipulator of a base ball ever seen in York.

The visitors played a gentlemanly game and were full of ginger throughout the contest. Score—Gettysburg 16, Athletics 0.

The fielding of the visitors was perfect. The batting of Tate, Wolf and Sheely and some clever base running by Dill were the features of

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE DELUSION OF—WHEN

I wonder how very many people have worn out that little word when. We are forever saying that we will do certain things when. When our whimsical ship comes in, or when we get a little more money, or a new car, or when the baby is born, or when we get a better job, or when we get any number of a dozen things done—Which we never do get done!

In that little book "Try Giving Yourself Away" I came across this idea, where the author, David Dunn, says: "Doubtless we shall be somewhat happier WHEN—but not as much happier as we think. Life has a way of presenting new complications, and conjuring new wants, as fast as old ones are satisfied."

The time to do anything, that can be done, is when the impulse is on, when the incentive is fresh and full of fire. If you wait, all this early hope and enthusiasm may be totally lost. It's so easy to push this little when around, for it has no life in itself.

You have heard people remark that they would do this and so—when they get ready. The hitch here is that such people never do get ready! Many of the most valuable lessons in life are missed because we failed to do something that we really wanted to do—but didn't. When is a delusion, no matter how you oil it up! Often it is used as a foil, and at other times as a mere excuse, or an intention without purpose or meaning.

The young man says: "When I get a raise in salary I shall begin to set aside a definite amount for a rainy day." But the raise comes and he spends that much more. That when takes a swift fly out of his intention window! When my ship comes in. Listen! You are its Captain and its Pilot. You can guide it to any port you wish, if you have decision, courage, and the will. And then it will come in all right, never fear.

Opportunity for great things and much joy and happiness slips by rapidly by always intending, by always planning something—when. Unfortunately, when the when comes all incentive has fled!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Love's Intimacy"

GOLF IS A SHREW

The game of golf I'd call a shrew.
At first a joy to see,
Who hides, when man begins to woo,
How vexing she can be.

Once man has started to adore
And taken her for life,
He'll find that golf can plague him more
Than any nagging wife.

With hooks and slices she betrays
Her fondest devotees
And angers every man who plays
With seven instead of three.

I write it as a simple fact;
Golf's an enchanting lure,
With maddening ways which Job
Had lacked
The patience to endure.

ARMS FOR TIME IS ESSENCE OF TRUMAN'S PLAN

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, July 26 (AP)—Trading guns for time, with the emphasis on time.

That's the core of President Truman's request to Congress for arms for this country's allies.

The State Department—backing him up with a 41-page booklet explaining his request in details—says: "Our assistance must reach its destination in time to achieve its purpose."

"Beneath the confidence that the present degree of recovery has engendered, there is a pervasive fear that the gains may be swept away by aggression on the part of the Soviet Union."

That "aggression" could take several forms. For one, direct attack. Right now Russia is in so much better shape, militarily, it could overrun the Western European countries.

"Cold War" Aggression
There's another form of aggression. That's Russian pressure without a shot being fired. For example:

Under pressure from heavily armed Russia, an unarmed Western European country—fearing attack if it didn't agree—might let its own native Communists take over.

President Truman made that point pretty clear in his message to Congress yesterday:

"... The nations of Western Europe have not been able to ignore the necessity of a military defense for themselves."

"They have seen what the Soviet Union has done to nations in Eastern Europe for which it professed friendship and with which it was recently allied."

"They have observed how a Communist coup d'etat operating in the shadow of the massed military might of the Soviet Union, can overthrow, at one stroke, the democratic liberties and the political independence of a friendly nation."

He was referring to Czechoslovakia, of course. That country's frontier adjoins Russia's. Czechoslovakia's own Communists got themselves into key positions in the government.

Could Grab Arms
Then, when they felt the time was right, they grabbed the whole government, with Russia standing by, watching. Immediately, Czechoslovakia became a Russian puppet.

But suppose we send a Western European power arms and, in some way, Communists legitimately are elected to office by the people of that country, putting them in a position to grab control.

Suppose then they do grab it, taking over the government and the arms we sent that country, and then ally themselves with Russia, as they would. They could use our own arms against us.

What then? Mr. Truman didn't supply an answer for that one, at least directly.

But the whole aim of his message, asking money of Congress for arms for allies was this:

If those countries recover economically, the people of those countries won't have to elect Communists to find a solution for their

President Gathers Facts On Economics

Washington, July 26 (AP)—The administration launched its regional business-jobs aid plan Monday. President Truman was reported meanwhile as determined to wait another six months to see whether the economy gets better or worse—and then see what's needed.

For the time being, Mr. Truman plans to pin-point federal spending in areas hardest hit by unemployment and business decline.

In that connection Secretary of Commerce Sawyer went to Boston to confer with the New England council and governors of New England states to get the economic picture in that area.

At the same time, Undersecretary of Commerce Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney and Assistant Secretary Thomas C. Blaisdell journeyed to Louisville and Atlanta to meet with business groups. Other commerce department officials were to go later in the week to the mid-west, and to other sections, to get on-the-spot data of economic sore spots.

Ex-Paratrooper Is Injured In Crash

Conshohocken, Pa., July 26 (AP)—Doctors at Roxborough hospital Monday ordered round-the-clock transfusions of blood plasma in an effort to save the life of a 22-year-old former paratrooper injured in the crash of a light amphibian plane.

The plane crashed Sunday in the Schuylkill river at nearby Miquon.

The paratrooper, Callistus Kelly, was a passenger in the plane which was piloted by Edward J. Wnek, 27. Both are Philadelphians. Wnek, also a patient in Roxborough hospital, was described as being in fair condition.

Lower Merion Township police said the plane crashed after a series of practice landings and takeoffs on the river. They said the plane struck a tree in taking off. The force of the crash snapped the safety belts of both men, throwing them out of the plane.

poverty, because there won't be poverty.

But, unless those countries have arms to stand off Russia, they'll remain so jittery they won't recover economically.

SAYS CZECHS FAVOR MOSCOW

Prague, Czechoslovakia, July 26 (AP)—Czechoslovakia's Communist premier said on Sunday that if forced to choose between Catholicism or Communism, the country's answer would be: "Moscow, Stalin, Socialism."

Premier Antonin Zapotocky, speaking to 15,000 union members in Trutnov—formerly a part of the Sudetan German region—declared:

However, if that question is placed to us through actions from the other side, then we shall leave nobody in doubt that the answer of our nation shall be that there is no other alternative for us but Moscow-Stalin-Socialism."

Even as he spoke, Czech Communist officials were denouncing the church's excommunication of Communists as a "devilish means of sowing discord" in Communist-ruled countries.

POLICE REVEAL "CHEATING" IN NUMBERS GAME

New York, July 26 (AP)—A three-state roundup of an alleged $50,000, 000-a-year racket ring—which juggled the figures to cheat the players—widened with more arrests today.

Six men were booked here shortly after dawn, following all-night questioning by District Attorney Frank S. Hogan and aides.

Nine persons were arrested yesterday in New Jersey and Cincinnati, and two were seized here previously.

Today's batch of prisoners—including two newspaper circulation employees—were charged with conspiracy and contriving a lottery.

The cheating was done by manipulating the reports on the daily totals of the Cincinnati, Ohio, Clearing House Association.

Dennison Doble, secretary of the association, was reported to have admitted he had juggled the figures for a year and a half so that the players' normal 1000-in-1 chance of winning would be reduced enormously.

Suckers Lost Heavily

The Cincinnati bank clearing figures were a factor in determining the winning numbers on which suckers in many states bet their pennies, dimes and dollars.

One of the prisoners, Anthony Strollo, alias Tony Bender, was described by New York county District Attorney Frank S. Hogan as "one of the top underworld figures in the east."

Strollo was arrested yesterday in Cliffside Park, N. J., as the three-state crackdown hit. Doble, who was arrested in Cincinnati, will be brought to New York to face charges.

Seven persons were arrested in Newark, N. J., after New York and New Jersey officers raided the alleged headquarters of the racket in a fashionable home.

Three of the Newark prisoners were held in bail of $100,000 each. One of them is the occupant of the raided house, Daniel Zwillman, a cousin of Abner ("Longy") Zwillman, a prominent prohibition era figure in the Newark area.

Slash Pay-Off

Two men were arrested July 12 in an "initial raid" in Staten Island, the district attorney said.

A numbers player selects a sequence of any three digits—such as 237 or 999 and puts his bet on that for the day. With the odds 1000-to-1, the payoff was only 640-to-1.

The raided ring's winning number was made by this way, in order: The second and third digits from the noon Wall Street bond figures and the second digit of the Cincinnati Clearing House daily total.

A member of the ring obtained the first two figures from the Newark branch of the financial firm of Kean, Taylor and company. Hogan said, but there was no suggestion that the company was involved in the racket.

After obtaining the first two digits of the number on which the ring would have to pay off, its mathematicians figured out what third digit would cost the ring the least in pay-offs.

That's where Doble came in, according to authorities.

Hogan said the eastern wing of the ring notified the confederate in Cincinnati, who provided the selected third digit in the right place in the clearing house total. Thus many players were gypped by a rigged number, and they never knew it.

Lion Softballers Trip Littlestown

The Gettysburg Lions softball team continued undefeated over a two year span with a 9-5 victory over the Littlestown Lions club Monday evening at Sheffer's park.

Paced by Johnny Long who had five hits in as many times at bat, Gettysburg scored three runs in the first inning and coasted to the win. Fred Sanders and George Albee split the pitching assignment for Gettysburg, with Don Myers and Dave Blosser sharing the catching duties.

Bud Bankert was the hitting star for Littlestown with three hits in four times at bat. Jimmy Bowers pitched for the visitors with Allen Weikert behind the bat.

Will Charge Fees In Filing Appeals

Harrisburg, July 26 (AP)—Employers filing appeals against payment of jobless benefits to former workers must now pay from $12.50 to $200 in filing fees with the state.

The state Unemployment Compensation Board of Review fixed the fee schedule in line with a law enacted by the 1949 General Assembly.

Labor organizations sought the amendment to the state Unemployment Compensation law on the grounds it would stop indiscriminate appeals by employers whether there was merit in their claims or not.

Under the law, if a worker is denied benefits as a result of the appeal, the filing fee is refunded.

"It will take a couple of months of experience before anyone can tell what effect it will have on the number of appeals," commented one source.

$20,000 BARN BLAZE

Carlisle, Pa., July 26 (AP)—A large barn, filled with hay and wheat, burned Sunday on the farm of W. H. Sheaffer, of nearby Huntingdale, Cumberland county, causing damage estimated at $20,000.

Washington, July 26 (AP)—George H. Love, president of the Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Co., Monday denounced John L. Lewis' three-day work week in the coal fields as "confiscation" of private capital. He was Va.), who called the curtailed working program announced by the United Mine Workers last June 30 a "bold, overt act to control production and prices."

DUFF LABELS CAMP PENN AS 'BIG SUCCESS'

Indianapolis, Pa., July 26 (AP)—Some 2,200 boys Monday opened the last week of their free outing at Camp Penn here with the assurance from Gov. James H. Duff that the project has accomplished its purpose.

The Governor watched the campers stage a mass physical education exhibition on Sunday and termed the camp "an outstanding success as a demonstration of good will among boys."

"It shows that boys, if left alone without prejudice pumped into them, will get along together with complete understanding and good will," Duff said.

Praises Weber

At a news conference before the observance of Governor's day at the camp, Duff praised the camp's management by Maj. Gen. Frank A. Weber, state adjutant general. He denied there was anything "irregular or mysterious" about a $56,000 contract for feeding the boys.

"It has been handled in an extraordinarily able way by General Weber," the Governor told reporters.

Published reports over the week-end said the mess hall contract was given to Joseph A. Rotunda, of Annville, for $150 a day for each boy, without advertising for bids and that he had been paid $25,000 on account after the first week.

The Governor said the contract was given "in strict accordance with provisions of the administrative code, with approval of the attorney general and auditor general."

Critics "Off the Beam"

"As far as any endeavor is made to create the impression there was anything irregular or mysterious, it is entirely off the beam," Duff added.

Weber told reporters the special law setting up the camp did not require advertising for bids and was given to Rotunda as "the best man available."

He said that Rotunda is not a politician and that politics did not enter into the contract. He pointed out that Rotunda operated the military affairs department cafeteria along with similar cafeterias. He added that J. G. Kayser, of Trenton, N. J., was in charge of the mess hall under the contract and that both have done a good job feeding the boys.

Favors Smaller Camp

Weber did agree, however, with the consensus of an Allegheny county camping committee that Camp

"Explorers" Will Visit Frenchtown

Towanda, Pa., July 26 (AP)—The five-man canoe party exploring the Susquehanna river today planned to visit the remains of a village established as a refuge for Queen Marie Antoinette at the time of the French Revolution.

The party, gathering material for National Geographic Magazine, stopped last night at Wysox, not far from the site of Frenchtown.

They came down the river from Athens, stopping at Towanda, home and burial place of David Wilnot, author of the historic Wilnot Proviso and early residence of Stephen Foster of folk song fame.

Use Army Property At Scout Jamboree

Washington, July 26 (AP)—Army navy and air force equipment would be used by the Boy Scouts at their 1950 National Jamboree, Valley Forge, Pa., under a bill approved yesterday by a House Armed Services subcommittee.

Some 40,000 scouts are expected for the jamboree.

The Scouts would be required to post a $50,000 bond for the safe return of the property.

Washington, July 26 (AP)—Senator McCarran (D-Nev.) took issue Monday with a U. N. official who spoke out against a mystery witness' claim that the U. N. Secretariat is terrorized by Communist agents. Sworn testimony of a person identified only as "Witness No. 8" was made public over the week-end by a Senate judiciary subcommittee which McCarran heads.

Penn is a good idea but it's too big.

The committee made its report on Sunday just before the open house program got underway.

"I'm going to recommend a smaller camp to Governor Duff," Weber said. "Twenty-five hundred boys are just too many to handle in one lump."

SEEK DATE TO ADJOURN HOUSE

Washington, July 26 (AP)—House Republicans demanded today an end to the uncertainty over the date for adjournment of Congress.

And if things aren't cleared up in a hurry, they hinted, they may fight any move to keep the Senate and House in session after July 31. That is the adjournment deadline fixed by the 1946 Congressional Reorganization Act.

Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts told reporters he would demand a showdown tomorrow by publicly asking the Democratic leadership what it intends to do.

Specifically, Martin said, he will ask Speaker Rayburn if it is the intention of the Democrats to follow the July 31 deadline set in the Reorganization Act. If they don't intend to follow it, Martin will want to know why, and how much longer the session will last.

Martin's question won't take Rayburn by surprise. For several weeks the House leaders have been debating whether the reorganization act's provision is binding this year because technically the nation still is at war.

The reorganization act says Congress shall adjourn not later than July 31 of each year except in time of war or national emergency, or unless Congress extends the session by affirmative action.

While Rayburn has not publicly disclosed his views, those close to him represent him as believing that no extension resolution is necessary since peace treaties ending the war have not been signed.

If there's an emergency nullifying the 1946 law's adjournment provision, Martin said, "I want to know about it."

KILLED IN FALL

Pottsville, Pa., July 26 (AP)—A 20-foot fall from a tree killed 68-year old Wassel Motko of nearby Forestville yesterday. Deputy Coroner Thomas Wythe, Minersville, said Motko sustained a broken neck.

Honor Nelson Fox, Vic Wertz Sunday

Philadelphia, July 26 (AP)—A pair of major league baseball players are going to be honored at Shibe Park next Sunday by their fellow townsmen from Pennsylvania communities.

More than 500 persons from the Chambersburg area are going to pay tribute to Nelson Fox, resident of St. Thomas, Franklin county, whose work at second base for the Philadelphia Athletics has been widely acclaimed.

Vic Wertz, outfielder for the Detroit Tigers, will be honored by his fellow residents of Hanover. Wertz has been one of the Tigers' main cogs this season, his first in the majors.

Another Pennsylvanian, Elmer Valo, of Palmerton, will receive special plaudits this week. On Thursday night, Valo will be given a television set for hitting a grand slam homer in a recent game.

Steelworkers Air Pension Figures

Pittsburgh, July 26 (AP)—The CIO United Steelworkers says U. S. Steel Corp. can pay its retired employees $150 a month at a cost of little more than six cents per man per hour.

In the first public presentation of its case, the union revealed during the week-end it studied 722 pensions now paid to retired of big steel. And it says the men average less than $6 per month.

The steelworkers estimated big steel could finance the health and welfare plan the union wants with an outlay of 4.85 cents per man hour. That would bring the total cost of its pension and insurance demands to 10.99 cents per man hour.

Chapter 15

Priscilla had worked for the finance company less than a month when she discovered that she might be able to work only a few months longer. Impelled to speak with someone she could trust, she called her friend.

"Something's happened, I think," she blurted out as soon as she heard Gertrude's voice. "I don't know whether to be happy or frightened about it."

"Happy or frightened?" exclaimed Gertrude. "Don't tell me," she continued, "you've found a new love-light."

"Of course not," said Priscilla impatiently. "It's just that . . . that I think I'm going to have a baby."

"No!" Gertrude was silent for a moment. "Look," she said finally, "have you told Kenneth or your loving mother-in-law yet?"

"No," said Priscilla. "I don't know how to . . . well, Kenneth isn't home and . . ."

"Good," said Gertrude briskly. "Now don't tell them until I see you again. I think I can arrange for you to go to the doctor who fixed Nancy up . . ."

"But, Gertrude," she interrupted, "suppose I want to have a baby. I don't know . . ."

Gertrude was silent again for a moment and when she spoke she seemed to be measuring her advice.

"Don't be a fool, honey," she said. "Deprived of the reassurance she had hoped to get from Gertrude, Priscilla decided to walk over to Viola's."

"Pris," said Viola soberly, "it may be that, under these conditions, Gertrude is not so far wrong." Viola began recounting her experiences with the Kent family. Fortunately for her, she had never been forced, like Priscilla, to live with them. Daniel owned a modest garage business and they had been able, from the first, to afford their own place.

"I hate to say this, Pris," declared Viola, "but it is better to know what you are facing. As a result of having run wild during his formative years, Ken is lazy, headstrong, and inconsiderate. Daniel took him into his business and tried his best to develop him but had to give him up as a bad job. Honey, I . . . Perhaps you can make a man of him."

Priscilla felt the tears gather in her eyes. "Oh, Viola, I hope so. For . . . for the baby's sake, I hope so," she whispered.

The following Saturday night Priscilla and Kenneth drove to a Fourth of July party, and their being alone together in the car afforded just the privacy she wanted.

"I really shouldn't dance tonight. You see, dear, we're going to have a baby," she said demurely, her eyes watching him out of the corners.

"Going to have what?" he exploded, almost losing control of Betsy.

"Are you glad, Ken?"

"Well, I ain't exactly glad. But you got to give me time to get used to the idea. Mom'll be tickled . . . I guess. Maybe you two'll get along better."

When they got back, Kenneth, suddenly hilarious, shouted up the stairs, "You wanna hear sumpin' funny, folks? We're gonna have a baby!"

Priscilla flinched under the impact of his coarseness.

His father came down and congratulated them both, but Mrs. Kent seemed little pleased and her only comment was marked by her usual sarcasm.

"She ain't never home. Maybe after the baby comes things'll be different," she snarled.

Several days later she was trying to decide whether to go to work late or to make a visit instead, to a good obstetrician, when she heard the phone ring. Assuming that it was Kenneth, she ran down the steps.

Apprehensively Priscilla took the telephone. Don't go away on another trip now, said her heart. Don't go away and leave me with your mother. Is it really business taking you away or is it . . . something else?

Kenneth's warm tone of voice reassured her. He said that the company was sending him on a three weeks' trip to Omaha and back. He was telling the truth . . . this time, she felt sure. Of course, she did want him to stay, but if he had to go . . .

"Don't worry, Babes. I'll be back before you know it. Just be a good girl and stop fightin' with Mom," he cautioned. He seemed about to ring off.

"Oh, Ken," said Priscilla. "I think maybe I should go to an obstetrician today."

There was silence for a moment. "I don't get it," said Kenneth finally. "My God, it's only been a couple of months. How much money do you think I have to spend on doctors?"

"But . . ." Priscilla began.

"No buts about it," said Kenneth roughly. "Give me a woman that ain't a weakling. Going to the doctor this early in the game. Huh!" He slammed down the telephone in her ear.

For a week after Kenneth's departure there was a precarious truce between Priscilla and her mother-in-law. Finally a letter came from Kenneth addressed to his wife.

Priscilla found the letter on the table in the dining-room and took it to her room to read. It was just a short note. He sent his love to her and his parents and sister. The letter was not very exciting—certainly not a love letter. She ran down the steps light-heartedly to convey the message to Mrs. Kent.

"I have a letter from Ken," she said cheerfully. "He sends you his love."

She began to read it aloud, when Mrs. Kent turned around and snatched the letter from her hand.

"I kin read," she asserted hotly. "It's too bad my own son has to send me his love by somebody else. I guess ya told him to send his letters to you instead me."

"Why, I didn't tell him anything of the kind," protested Priscilla.

"Don't tell me!" raged the older woman. "I know your lyin', flirtn' kind."

Unable to endure any more of her mother-in-law's temper, she hurried to Viola's and threw herself sobbing into her arms.

"Oh, Vi," she moaned, "I can't have a baby in that terrible place with that horrible old woman. I'd rather die."

"Now sit down here, dear, while I work, and try to calm yourself. Then we'll figure this thing out."

"I'm practically through, honey," said Viola innocently. "Be a good girl and go find Laddie."

Priscilla, grateful for something to do, went outside and, by the time she returned with him, to her surprise she found Gertrude there.

"Gee, I'm sorry!" said Gertrude, when Priscilla had told her of Mrs. Kent's jealousy. "I can't help telling you again that I think you should get rid of that baby."

"I do want to have a baby," explained Priscilla, "but I wish . . . I do wish Kenneth and I could have our own place."

I wonder what chance there is, honestly, of our ever having our own place, she thought. Where is Kenneth tonight? In what replica of the Blue Dragon Roadhouse or whatever they call it in Omaha? Would Viola's home be the only homelike place Priscilla would ever know?

Chapter 16

A few days later, when a second letter came from Kenneth without any direct message for Mrs. Kent, the old woman became so violent in her resentment that, at times, Priscilla was actually afraid—going to the extreme of locking her bedroom door at night.

Kenneth's second letter was a loving one. If Priscilla had been an older woman, she might have detected this sudden sweetness on his part as induced by the pangs of a guilty conscience, but instead it gave her young heart new hope.

He wrote in a tender, if illiterate, manner ending the letter with: "I bleeve the boss appreshiats me more now. Maybe I will get a raise and you and me can have our own little home." There was only one jarring note about the whole thing. The letter had obviously been opened and reread.

For several days an unusual calm pervaded the Kent household. Mrs. Kent had nothing to say but it was like the silence of a crouching tiger waiting for a chance to spring upon its prey. Priscilla determined to spend as little time during the next week at her mother-in-law's as possible, but it was hard to avoid having breakfast there. One morning at breakfast she could tell by Mrs. Kent's face that a storm was brewing. She excused herself from the table and left for work, but that evening she could not avoid the issue any longer. Mrs. Kent stood with arms akimbo, barring the way to the stairs.

"Well, did ya find a place to live?" she asked sarcastically.

"You had no right to open my letter," responded Priscilla.

"No right, eh?" Mrs. Kent glared at her defiantly. "Yer a common onery flirt. I know'd it from the first time I seen ya. Ya want to get away, so I can't watch ya."

"You know that's not true, Mother Kent. We are certainly not happy together. You should be glad that Kenneth and I intend to leave. Besides, that's a long way off."

"We was happy enough afore you come," retorted Mrs. Kent, her voice rising, "a-tryin' yer dirty tricks, to take my son away. Ya can't do it—I tell ya," she shrieked. "He'll stick by his Mom. He loves me more'n you and allas will."

During the succeeding months Mrs. Kent never relaxed for a moment her efforts to make Priscilla uncomfortable, and it was quite evident to Priscilla that Kenneth's words in his letter about their making a home for themselves had affected her. She wanted Priscilla to go and Kenneth to stay, that much was obvious, and the fact that she would soon have a new grandchild did not seem to make any difference.

As it happened, Mrs. Kent need not have worried about the young couple making a home of their own. Kenneth did not get the raise he thought was due him.

Thus, the remaining summer months, especially after Kenneth's homecoming from his trip to Omaha, passed uncomfortably for Priscilla. Her figure had begun to show her condition and in early September, she resigned from her job. She was sorry to resign, as she had liked the company and enjoyed her work, but she knew she could no longer remain there. She was gratified, however, when her employer told her if she ever wanted to come back, there would always be a position there for her.

By the time September came Priscilla had paid for the furniture and draperies she had purchased so hopefully in April, but it left her without any money of her own and Kenneth still refused to give her the money to go to a doctor. She had managed to see her father once or twice, but she kept that situation from him for she knew he would want to give her the money and she didn't feel that he could afford it. He was still making weekly trips to the doctor because of the after-effects of his illness and she knew the injections he was getting were expensive.

Meanwhile Priscilla's position in the Kent household was precarious. She and Kenneth had grown so far apart, she despaired of their ever loving one another as they had in the days of their courtship. She thought of their first night together, remembered the way he had been then, tenderly possessive. Now he behaved as if she had become unclean in some way. He seldom touched her.

September passed and October turned the leaves to gold and sent them scurrying underfoot. Priscilla worried about the baby's clothes. As yet she had nothing beyond gifts from the girls and the blue sweater, which was now finished and waiting for its owner to arrive. Kenneth had no money—and with good reason for he was out every night spending it as fast as he made it—and had lately shown an aversion to any mention of the baby. Priscilla hoped that, when the baby came, he would feel differently, but, with a new maturity she found in herself, she had made up her mind that if he didn't, she would go back to work and pay Viola to take care of the child.

The last time she mentioned the coming baby to Kenneth was one morning before breakfast while the two of them were still in their bedroom. Priscilla was looking around the room speculatively.

"Ken," she said suddenly, "if we moved the dresser over there, don't you think we could squeeze a bassinet into that space. Of course, I guess pretty soon it'll need a bed, but then we could . . ."

She never finished her sentence. Kenneth strode over to her and grabbed her by both arms, his powerful fingers reminding her of that day . . . that awful day of the picnic.

"If you say one more word about that baby," he said, "I'm gonna leave here and you'll never see me again. I ain't so sure I won't do it anyhow." And with that he walked down the stairs and out of the house without even waiting to get his breakfast. Priscilla was frightened more than she had been the day he had shaken her into insensibility, and she did not bring up the subject again.

Chapter 17

From that day on all Priscilla's thoughts and hopes were centered on the coming child. Fearing brutality from Kenneth, she strove to please him when he was home and for the rest of the time, she withdrew into a new secret life of her own. She lived not in the present but in dreams of the future. The past was Dennis. The future was her child.

One day soon after that, as she was taking her daily walk through the town, she was surprised when James fell into step beside her. She would not have been glad to see Lorraine's husband except for the fact that he might give her some news of her father and Drusie. She decided to be pleasant to him.

"Why, James! What are you doing here?" she asked. "I thought you came a different way—and it's so early."

"I had to get off to go to the doctors," he explained briefly. "My eyes have been bothering me. Office work, you know."

James' next words amazed her. "Priscilla," he said, "I've been wanting to tell you for a long time how sorry I have been for what happened that Sunday. . . . I hope you'll forgive me."

"Of course I'll forgive you," answered Priscilla.

He looked so agitated that Priscilla put her hand on his arm. "It's all right now, James," she said kindly. "Let's forget it. Tell me something about Dad and Drusie. How are they?"

James seemed glad to change the subject now and he talked with Priscilla for a long time, giving her the news. Her father wasn't as young as he used to be, but seemed to be getting along pretty well. Mrs. Hayden had given up her church work because she had been invited to join a social club. And last of all the news, James told her aly, that Lorraine was going to have a baby, but not until March.

Priscilla was so engrossed with the effort of imagining Lorraine as a mother that she did not pay attention to the rest of James' conversation until the name "Dennis" struck her ears. They had stopped at the place where James would turn off to go to the Hayden home and Priscilla found herself looking up at him rather stupidly.

"Dennis?" she said. "What about Dennis?"

"I think you should know this," said James. "Dennis Drummond is back in town. He's joined the law firm of Hart and Langer and from what I hear it won't be long before the name 'Drummond' will go up on the door."

As Priscilla walked homeward and thought about these things, she had an odd sense of pride, as if she had had something to do with Dennis' success.

Priscilla walked on until she reached the Kent house in its broken-down neighborhood. She wondered whether Dennis had any idea of where she lived and the things that had been happening to her. Probably not. She hoped that she wouldn't meet him anywhere and, above all, that he would never know where she lived.

Kenneth did not come home until after supper that night and, when he did come, he was well on his way toward being drunk.

"Come on, old lady!" he said gaily. "We're going out."

"Oh, Ken, I'm too tired to go out." "Do you good!" His whisky-laden breath hit her in the face as he kissed her again. "Betsy is waiting."

"Well, that's another thing," said Priscilla. "I don't like to ride in Betsy now. That car jerks and jiggles so much . . ."

"Betsy used to be good enough for you," he said nastily, "but now that your old boyfriend's back in town with his new car and all that hooty-hooty stuff about being a lawyer, I guess me and Betsy's on the shelf, I guess . . ."

So he knew, too, that Dennis was back. Priscilla felt her hands begin to shake with anger and impotence. So now Dennis' name was going to figure in their arguments.

"Well, are you going with me?" he asked.

"Okay," she said wearily. "We'll probably just go to the picture show and nobody will see me. . . ."

Kenneth, it developed, had other ideas.

"Where are you going?" Priscilla asked in alarm as Betsy bore them jerkily toward the edge of town.

"Blue Dragon," Kenneth answered briefly.

"But . . ."

"Shut up!" It was the first time he had ever said that to her. Priscilla felt the tears come to her eyes. She fought them back and when they walked into the Blue Dragon Roadhouse, she held her head high. Priscilla went straight to an empty booth. She sat down. This was where she intended to stay.

Kenneth meanwhile stood at the bar. It was as if he had forgotten all about her. She ordered a drink and toyed with it, but still Kenneth did not come . . . after a while, she decided not to look at him any more . . . she'd just sit there and think. . . .

"If you . . . if you aren't busy," said a gentle voice, "why can't we talk?"

As she lifted her eyes, she gasped. It was Dennis. He sat down on the other side of the booth, his brown eyes regarding her softly.

"Your husband," he said, "has gone into the gambling room at the back." He seemed to have summed up the whole of Kenneth in that one sentence.

Dennis indicated the bar with a slight flick of his eyelashes. "Do you see that man with the brown tweed suit and the gray hair?" Priscilla wondered, said she did.

"Plainclothesman," Dennis told her. "That's Duffy of the Detective Bureau and I happen to know the back room is going to be raided in a few minutes—in fact, I came along with Duffy to watch the fireworks. Do you," he paused, his eyes intent on hers, "want me to go back there and get your husband to leave now or would it be better . . ."

"Do you mean Kenneth will be put in jail?" she asked. Dennis suddenly rose. "Come on," he said tersely and she saw that more men were coming in the front door. She felt herself being rushed out a side entrance and Dennis helped her into what she could see dimly must be a convertible coupe. He backed the car out of its parking place rapidly and drove off.

They rode in silence until they reached the University campus.

"Where do you live?" Dennis asked.

"Over on the other side of town," Priscilla answered. She had a sense of being caught in an intolerable situation. This very afternoon she had wished, above all things, that Dennis would never know where she lived and now . . . She began to cry softly.

His sympathy only served to make her cry harder.

"I—I don't want my baby's father in jail," she said finally. It sounded like a silly thing to say, but she meant it.

Dennis removed his hand. "I don't blame you," he said; but his voice lacked the sympathy it had held a moment before. "I'll go to night court and see what I can do for him."

EUROPEAN AID ENLISTED FOR DEFENSE LINE

By DEWITT MACKENZIE (AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

President Truman having signed the Atlantic pact, forthwith called on Congress yesterday to implement this epoch making treaty with a foreign arms program running to $1,450,000,000, which would go chiefly to aid our European allies.

Now a billion and a half dollars is a lot of money even in these days of astronomical calculations, and there are plenty of signs that the law-makers will examine the proposal with weather-eyes. Adverse criticism of the proposal has been based chiefly on the claim that Uncle Sam's economy already is strained to the limit by our present vast budget, which includes some $15,000,000,000 for defense alone.

The administration's request for this foreign aid is based on the strategic decision that the military strength of our European allies should be increased as quickly as possible to enable them to stand off any Russian attack until American power could come to the rescue.

In short we don't propose to reenact the role we played in the last two world wars.

President Truman's message to Congress included these explanatory points:

"The better prepared the free nations are to resist aggression, the less likelihood there is that they will have to use the forces they have prepared. x x x Their defense is our defense and is of deep concern to us. x x x It must be made clear that the United States has no intention, in the event of aggression, of allowing the peoples of Western Europe to be overrun before their own power can be brought to bear. x x x The aid we provide will constitute only a minor fraction of what these countries will spend themselves."

So we see that the proposed American aid isn't entirely an altruistic proposition. As Mr. Truman says "their defense is our defense." We are acting in our own interests. Our forward defenses lie in Europe these days.

Washington, July 26 (P)—House spy hunters said Monday a woman employee of the United Nations put herself "in the category of a courier for the Communist party" while working for the U. S. government. The un-American activities committee tossed that accusation against Mrs. Mary Jane Keeney, 51, of New York. The basis for it was a report apparently written by an FBI agent, that figured in the trial at which Judith Coplon was convicted of betraying her government.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, July 26 (P)—The Champion Cleveland Indians, tangle with the Yankees in another important series, have placed a cruel and unusual burden on their pitching staff. . . . The pitchers not only have to perform their regular chores well, but they have no knock in the runs to win. . . . "Why, from our 77th game up to last Sunday, our pitchers and Catcher Jim Hegan had driven in as many runs as all the rest of the batting order," Publicitor Marsh Samuel pointed out. "Bob Lemon has been on a home run streak and early Wynn won a game with a homer the other day. Lemon has been really remarkable. He has only been at bat 55 times, but he has hit six homers, three doubles and two triples. He really looks like a hitter up there, too. The rest of the team still is in a slump. We've scored 200 less runs than the Red Sox—that's an average of about two a game—and that's why we're not out in front by five or six games." . . . Come to think of it, Lemon started out as a third baseman—and that's where the Indians need help right now.

ISN'T THAT Q'T?

The guys who'll handle the ball on offense for Wisconsin next football season will have to mind their P's and K's, according to Art Lentz. . . . Four centers on the varsity squad have surnames beginning with K—Klement, Kittell, Joe Kelly and Jack Kelly. . . . Four quarterbacks have names beginning with P—Pelouquin, Parish, Petruska and Peterson.

Blames Mother And Men For Downfall

New York, July 26 (P)—Plump Martha Beck, fighting conviction as "Lonely Hearts" slayer, is blaming her plight largely on a nagging mother and too many deceiving males.

The 29-year-old woman returned to the witness stand today to tell more of a life story that the defense hopes will bolster its claim of insanity.

Before a packed court room she told many sordid details yesterday. She said that when she was 13 was the victim of two attacks by her brother, and declared the affair has "been preying on my mind ever since."

Her mother kept her in virtual seclusion after that, Mrs. Beck testified, and she told her mother "you're driving me crazy."

The mother's reply, according to Mrs. Beck, was "what do you mean driving you crazy?—you've been crazy all your life."

And that wasn't the only time in her life that her mother accused her of being crazy, Mrs. Beck said. All her life, the defendant testified, she has been pursued by hard luck, a domineering mother and scheming men.

As of January, 1949, the American steel industry had an annual capacity of 96,000,000 tons of steel ingots and castings.

Steel is a form of purified pig iron, with definite amounts of carbon.
